... Cue eerie space music ...

Stardate 3023:918

Astronomers reported sighting a strange object near the orbit of Neptune, which produced a transmission received on Earth on all known frequencies. The message stated that the Earth was doomed, and that we should evacuate immediately! A cloud containing an unknown virus, able to survive in the near-vacuum conditions of space, was drifting in our direction, and would arrive in just over a year. The warning had been transmitted from a colony established by earth residents hundreds of years earlier, and unknown to us in our time.

Hundreds of colonies were established after our faster-than-light space drive was invented. Unfortunately we lost contact with many them, as our communication systems only operate at light-speed, meaning that it takes years to communicate with even our nearest colonies. Sadly, many of earth's greatest scientists emigrated to some of the earliest and most distant colonies. We sure could use their help in defeating the virus that currently threatens us.

We don't have the time and resources to evacuate the Earth, so a call was sent out throughout the planet and our known colonies, seeking a way to save our planet. We have a possible solution. A small group of brave young astronauts, led by one of Earth's greatest scientific minds, might be able to find enough colonies with the scientific know-how to help develop an antiviral in time. But who???

Of course...

Flash Barton and the Galactic Scouts!

Become a Galactic Scout and join Flash as he seeks out missing colonies, solves their mysteries and gains the knowledge we need to save the Earth!

... Fade to black ...

Come for the day on Saturday, or stay overnight in a tent in one of the Camp Barton campsites. Eat in the dining hall, and travel to program areas such as swimming, archery, handicraft, and nature. Each program area will have a theme-based challenge to help "save the Earth."

Cub Scouts need to attend with a parent or guardian. Health history forms will be required of all participants. Fees and exact schedules will be established early next year, so stay tuned for more information and the opening of reservations. And don't forget to save the dates:
